Information for non-UK Companies re VAT charged on our UK invoices

Following firm rulings from HM Customs & Excise we have to charge VAT on any goods or services which are supplied or take place in the United Kingdom. If your company is registered for VAT or its equivalent in your own country you might not be able to make a claim for this from your own countries authorities but you may be able to make a claim from UK VAT offices. To be able to make a claim from the UK VAT offices you will need to telephone +44 208 929 0152 and ask for form VAT 65.

If we run any exhibitions or carry out any service on your behalf outside the United Kingdom in either a EU or non EU country we may not have to charge VAT on these invoices, as long as the service was physically performed outside the UK. Any supply of goods which are not permanently 'exported' are still subject to UK VAT.

UK VAT rules can change at any time and we have to abide by UK law as we understand it on the date of the transaction.

Please Note:

This information is based on our understanding of information we have been given by the UK VAT authorities and should not be taken as definitive, if you have any queries these should be addressed to the UK VAT authorities on the above telephone number. E&EO
